CXXXI Sessions at Kingston, 2 October 1694

Jury Panels

m.21. Nathaniel Kelley, Thomas Basemore, Bernard Ashley, John Estland, Thomas Machell, Joseph Reeves, and Robert Fox, all of Ebisham, and John Goldsmith, Henry Child, Richard Wickes, Ralph Coper, Robert Lucock and Thomas Smith the younger, all of Ewell, empanelled among the jurors for the hundreds of Copthorne and Effingham.

Presentments

m.69. Sara Thatcher, late of Ebisham, victualler, 10 September 1694, and divers times before and since, obstinately without any licence of the Justices keeps a common alehouse there selling 'cervisiam et potum illupulatum anglice Ale and Beer' in contempt of the king and queen and their laws, against the peace and against the Statute.

Returns and Endorsements – none

m.70. Eleanor Thatcher, late of Ebisham, victualler, 10 September 1694, and divers times before and since, obstinately without any licence of the Justices keeps a common alehouse there selling 'cervisiam et potum illupulatum anglice Ale and Beer' in contempt of the king and queen and their laws, against the peace and against the Statute.

m.72. The common highway in Long Ditton, in a certain lane there called Loxs lane [error for Cox Lane], for a length of 150 rods, has been so ruinous since 10 September 1694, that the liege subjects cannot pass there with their horses, carts and carriages to their grave damage. The Inhabitants of Long Ditton ought to make and repair it whenever necessary, and they have not done so.

m.73. George Callindine, late of Ewell, victualler, 10 September 1694, and divers times before and since has kept 'commun' popina anglice a common alehouse', ill-governed, and has allowed idle and ill-disposed persons of evil (male) fame and 'conversacione inhoneste' to stay drinking and tipping there so that quarrels and disorder arose, to the great disturbance of his neighbours, in evil example and against the peace.
